

TELEPORT

Teleport means the user can disappear from one location, and instantly appear in another. This is usually very draining on the Gadget and it will require recharging frequently. Teleporters, or 'Transmats' are usually dedicated devices as it takes a lot of processing power to not only transport the user, but also to check the exit location is clear and avoid any nasty materialisation mishaps. The distance travelled is usually limited to around 400km (enough to get from a planet's surface to orbit, or to an awaiting ship), although this range can be increased with the further use of Story Points.
